FROM THE | PASTOR

"And no one pours new wine into old wineskins. Otherwise, the wine will burst the skins, and both the wine and the wineskins will be ruined. No, they pour new wine into new wineskins."
Mark 2:22

It has been a while since I purchased a book from an actual bookstore. Don't get me wrong. I love to read and frequently buy books online and read them on a screen instead of an actual page like I used to. I still like going to the bookstore or the library, but it is mostly for nostalgia these days.

When we grow in our discipleship, and our love for Jesus, we will experience a similar change in our life. We may from time to time think about our old life with some nostalgia. We may even find ourselves visiting old habits or places that used to be important to us. But they no longer have the same power or meaning over our life like they once did. Our new life with Jesus cannot be contained in the old way of living.

Jesus's teaching is true for us as a church as well. We can live on the fumes of old habits and nostalgia for a while, but the future depends on seeking, finding, and building on what Jesus wants for us today. And pursuing that with our friends, family, and community.

We can seek God's will with intent. Embrace the new thing God is doing. We can decide that we want God to make all things new.

Grace & Peace,

Rick Wey

BOOKWORMS

OK, ladies. It's almost February and you have a little more than two weeks to read "Lost Roses" by Martha Hall Kelly. It's about 400 pages, so get cracking. We meet at noon February 18, at Chris Broussard's Old Town home for bring-your-own lunch and discussion.

Our next meeting is at noon on February 18, 2020!
